TWO BC BROTHERS CHARGED IN CASE OF MURDERED GIRL

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — Kenneth Lloyd Meeker 30 and his 35-year-old brother James Leonard both of Kimberley, B.C. were charged with capital murder Wednesday night in the case of 12-year-old Alice Matthews near Mission in the Fraser Valley.

The Meekers were remanded in custody and ordered sent to Oakalla prison farm near Vancouver pending another appearance in court at Mission.

Alice's body was found in a gravel pit east of Mission June 24. Medical authorities said after an examination that the child had been brutally attacked.

The child disappeared while walking home from the house of her sister in the Mission area, 30 miles east of Vancouver.

Police said one of the Meeker brothers was arrested Tuesday night at Kimberley, a mining centre in B.C.'s East Kootenays, and the other was taken into custody there early Wednesday.

Sgt. Jack Hall of the Okanagan RCMP substation said the arrests came as the result of an inquiry into another case which tied in with the Matthews incident.

UK Hearing Told Of 'Master Spy'

LONDON (Reuters) — A "highly probable" he had named a former Russian diplomat in Britain as the mastermind who controlled spy operations in two of the country's big security cases.

Chief Inspector David Stratton said Nikolai Karpov, once a first secretary at the Russian embassy here and engaged in intelligence duty, was the man who directed the activities of Giuseppe Martelli, 39, an Italian-born nuclear scientist on trial on a charge of being a Soviet spy in waiting.

Stratton said under cross-examination by Martelli's counsel that Karpov also was the controller of British admiralty clerk William Vassal, who now is serving an 18-year jail sentence for spying for the Russians.

Stratton said he knew of no other contacts which Karpov had in Britain but added it was Act.

NEW LAST YEAR

The investigator said he first learned that the Russian was acting as a contact man last September. He said Karpov disappeared from Britain Sept. 6, 1962.

He said he learned of the former diplomat's activities because he was Vassal's contact.

ULBRICHT IN BEAR-HUG

Russian Premier Khrushchev left East Berlin by air for Moscow today on the eve of crucial talks with Communist China, after a week-long tour of East Germany. Khrushchev was joined in Berlin by other East European Communist leaders—with the exception of

Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej of Romania—to celebrate the 70th birthday of East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht. He is seen here at the East Berlin airport, saying farewell to Ulbricht with an affectionate Russian bear hug. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States celebrates its 187th Independence Day today with fireworks, parades and family outings. The original cry "let freedom ring" echoes strongly this year in demonstrations for equal rights for Negroes.

This year's celebration inaugurates an effort to ring all the bells in every city, town and hamlet. President Kennedy has endorsed the movement — "let freedom ring" — which calls for all bells to toll at 2 p.m. EDT and continue for four minutes.

The Liberty Bell in Philadelphia's Independence Hall must remain mute.

Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson heads the list of speakers at the hall, where the American colonists declared their independence from Britain July 4, 1776.

VACATIONS WITH FAMILY

President Kennedy, after spending morning business hours at the White House, flies in late afternoon to Squaw Island near Hyannis Port, Mass., where Mrs. Kennedy and their two children await him.

The annual fireworks display takes place tonight on the Washington Monument grounds in the capital.

Many clergymen journeyed to Maryland to join demonstrations for equal rights for Negroes.

Irwin Miller, president of the National Council of Churches, issues a statement urging all citizens to "band together to take concerted action to achieve common goals" and show "a willingness to put the common good ahead of private gain."

In Chicago, where the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is being held, an Independence Day parade and rally was expected to draw 10,000 persons to the downtown district.

WOUNDING CHARGE

CALGARY (CP) — Ralph Berg, 32, of Vancouver has been remanded to Tuesday for preliminary hearing on a wounding charge, laid after a man was shot in a downtown cafe three weeks ago. He was originally charged with attempted murder.

Looking back at Commons debate, the Conservative leader said the New Democratic Party condemned the budget but remained silent when a vote of non-confidence came.

He said this action was a disgrace to Parliament because under British tradition a member voted as he thought and spoke.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Social Credit members "have the largest bark, but they won't bite."

The opposition leader speaks at the Commonwealth International convention later today and visits the Pioneer show.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American railroads announced today they will put into effect July 11 new work rules which would result in a rail strike.

The action almost certainly will throw the dispute to the U.S. Congress for some means of averting a U.S.-wide rail strike.

President Kennedy announced last month that unless the dispute is settled by July 10 he would "make such recommendations to the Congress as these circumstances appear to dictate."

Without a settlement, he said, "there will be no alternative to the enactment of new legislation which will protect the public against a loss of its rail transportation."

The railroads' plans were announced by their chief negotiator, J. K. Wolfe, who said there has been a "complete breakdown" in negotiations.

Let's Be Easy On The Tourists This Year

It requires no great discernment to appreciate that the Okanagan Valley is experiencing what may be its greatest season for tourist business. This applies generally to British Columbia and the great influx of visitors has made the doubters realize that the visitor industry can be a very great asset indeed.

This has contributed toward a change in thinking. Take for instance the new policy of the Vancouver police department in the Okanagan. The police have generally treated visitors with courtesy and understanding. True, this has not always been the case, but it is general enough to be a fair statement in Vancouver, however, tourists visiting the city from anywhere outside the lower mainland area are to be treated like real guests. They are to be welcomed and they are to be given the freedom of the city within reason. In other words, Vancouver is beginning to learn how to close one eye to minor traffic infractions.

The orders that have gone out to the guardians of the law and the highways and byways of Vancouver is to be tolerant in all phases of traffic regulations. The police will not be too close to the line when they are dealing with tourists.

Vancouver has an idea which might well be tried in the Okanagan. Police will greet visitors with booklets outlining attractions and traffic regulations. The literature is published by the Vancouver Tourist Bureau and Traffic Safety Council.

Visitors to the lower mainland city will have white tabs attached to parking tickets. If the visitor can prove he is from outside the lower mainland, charges will be withdrawn. Visitors who park cars in prohibited areas will have to pay the cost of having their cars towed away, but not the tickets.

for storage fees in Vancouver.

Tourists, it is admitted, do not have much trouble in the Okanagan. The police are understanding and tolerant. But this can go much further than the police. Waitresses in restaurants, clerks in stores, service station operators and all persons employed in the tourist service industries—these people are out "front" the immediate contact and much of the impression obtained by tourists of a city stems directly from these contacts.

If they are treated friendly and efficiently, the tourists receive a good impression. If they are met with a snarl and are given sloppy work, the reverse is true.

And Mr. John Chisen himself can play an important part. If he sees a tourist obviously looking for something, an offer of assistance is always appreciated. Then, too, tourists are tourists and this means that they are sight-seeing, driving slowly and, because they are not familiar with the streets, uncertainly. They are prone to stop suddenly and make unexpected and quick turns. Mr. John Chisen driving behind them should be just a little more circumspect in his driving. And, too, when the tourist does something foolish, a tolerant smile and an understanding wave of the hand can be much more effective than a horn blast, a shake of the head or a frown.

Let's see to it that the tourists will receive a warm welcome in the Okanagan this year. Let's hope that those who run afoul of minor traffic offences will get a waiver when it comes to charges and let's try to be friendly and to be tolerant of their peccadilloes.

We are hoping for a banner tourist year. Let's treat them right when they get here so that they'll go home and tell their friends they should not miss the Okanagan Valley where the people are so friendly and courteous.

"A DEEP, BITTER AND LASTING WOUND"—MACMILLAN

Adenauer Urges Close Ties Between Europe And U.S.

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany, speaking at a meeting with President Kennedy and President de Gaulle of France, said this week, European unity "must develop in close partnership with the United States."

At the same time, he defended the new friendship treaty between France and Germany, saying reconciliation of the traditional enemies "is the prerequisite for any form of European co-operation."

In an interview with The Associated Press he also surveyed briefly his 14 critical years as chancellor of West Germany and summarized the accomplishment which obviously has given him the most satisfaction—the reintegration of the Federal Republic into the community of free nations.

At 87, Adenauer is preparing to turn over the government to Deputy Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, 66. The pressures of politics and a sense in Europe that a younger generation must be heard seem to have been behind his decision.

The interview took place in the Palais Schaumburg, where a week ago Adenauer conferred on Atlantic policy problems with President Kennedy. There also he will receive de Gaulle Thursday for the first round of talks prescribed under the new French-German pact, which calls for regular consultation and co-ordination between Bonn and Paris.

The interview was based on written questions submitted in advance. Expanding on the written replies, his comments left no doubt that he is a friend and admirer of de Gaulle. Adenauer is convinced that de Gaulle is committed to the essentials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and that no discussions over policy will break that basic commitment.

Here are questions and answers spelling out Adenauer's views:

Q Since you and President de Gaulle signed a treaty early this year setting up a special relationship between Germany and France there has been some apprehension in the United States and other Western countries that this relationship might develop contrary to the wider interests of the Atlantic alliance... what is the purpose of the treaty?

A. If you are to be able to evaluate the German-French treaty rightly, you must see what preceded it in the way of conflicts between France and Germany are threatened to the same degree by the Soviet Union.

The treaty ends a conflict that has stretched over 400 years. It is that fact which gives the treaty its place in history.

New Type Of Evidence

A new type of evidence is coming into use in cases involving persons driving motor vehicles while impaired by alcohol, according to an article in a recent issue of the magazine Listen. The article is entitled "Drinking Drivers Now Convict Themselves", and explains how sound motion pictures of drivers suspected of being impaired by alcohol are being used.

"The need for such a device," states Listen, "is that one of the greatest problems facing law enforcement officials today is the inability of prosecutors to win convictions against drinking and drunk drivers, even in the face of incriminating evidence. What happens says these officials is that those on the jury, many of whom are drinkers, look at the defendant and say to themselves, 'There but for the grace of God, go I'."

Denver, Colorado, was one of the first cities to use this photographic technique, and the first year it was in use 85 per cent of those charged with impaired driving pleaded guilty, compared with 20 per cent the previous year.

Captain Leonard Johnson of the Denver Police Department explains that the driver comes in the next morning with his attorney and is invited to view a short motion picture taken the night before. He takes one look at himself and says, "I wouldn't stand a chance. I plead guilty."

The way the photographic procedure operates is like this. When a suspect is brought into the police station, the breathalyzer test is given first, with the driver's consent. Then the picture is made; this takes about three minutes. About 120 to 150 feet of film is used while the driver answers questions and performs several physical feats, such as walking along a black line, touching his nose with his fingertip with eyes closed, and picking up several coins from the floor.

"These comparatively simple physical activities usually show up the swaying or staggering characteristics of an impaired driver. Also they reflect his coherency of speech, or lack of it, and his mental state as he attempts to answer questions and carry out instructions," says Lt. J. F. Moomaw, head of the Denver Police Crime Laboratory and originator of the motion picture idea.

Several other U.S. cities are now following Denver's lead and are using the photographic technique to gather evidence for the prosecution of drinking drivers.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Great Deal To Be Done In Arthritis Battle

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: At 41 my mother is beginning to show signs of rheumatoid arthritis from which her mother suffered greatly. Can anything be done to halt or slow its progress?—Miss W. A.

Often a great deal can be done.

First be sure that this is rheumatoid arthritis, and not some other form of joint trouble, such as osteoarthritis, gouty arthritis, etc.

Appropriate tests (sedimentation rate, blood uric acid, X-rays) are necessary for positive diagnosis and for keeping accurate observation of the progress. The general outlook for rheumatoid arthritis (and other types, too) is much more favorable now than it was some years ago.

Rheumatoid arthritis is likely to be severe and sudden in its onset, rather than something that creeps up slowly. It is painful while the original attack is in progress, and it can leave, to varying degrees, an aftermath of stiff, deformed joints. Do not confuse it with osteoarthritis which, rather than being an acute disease, is a long, slow process of wear and tear.

Some cases of rheumatoid arthritis arrest themselves—and whatever treatment happens to be in use gets the credit. Again, some five to 10 per cent of cases defy treatment and progress relentlessly.

The important first step is to keep the patient calm and cheerful. Attitude and emotions have a great deal to do with success. Adequate rest and nutrition are necessary—no special diet, but a well-balanced one.

Heat, baths and certain exercises to keep joints limber are all beneficial. I don't mean hard or excessive exercise which, especially in the active phase of rheumatoid arthritis, will do more harm than good. The goal is to keep the joints mobile and able to move to the full extent in any direction, but not to inflame them by exertion.

Splitting a joint part of the day, often at night) may do good, to prevent deformity. There is a tendency for the muscles to tighten when the patient is asleep. This splitting also lessens the stiffness frequently noticed first thing in the morning.

Focal infections should be eliminated, especially in the teeth.

Salicylates (aspirin or derivatives) in large doses remain the most-used medications. Steroids (cortisone, etc.) may help, but medications should, of course, be under a physician's direction.

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is dying of lung cancer. What precautions should I take?—Mrs. E. Z.

If you smoke, stop. You can't do much about air pollution but you can stop smoking. As a woman, you have a far smaller chance of lung cancer than a man has. Have a chest X-ray once a year (or twice a year if you smoke) and you've done what you can to detect the problem.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband eats five pounds of honey a month, lots of jams, and he has complications in his coffee. Can this lead to diabetes?—Mrs. O. S.

This sounds like quite a sweet tooth. How's his weight? Eating honey (or sugar) in moderation doesn't lead to diabetes, but compulsion does. Some people eat five pounds of candy a month. If they put on excess weight, they should cut down.

Mongolia Rises From Isolation

By ADAM KELLEY-LONG
ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (Reuters)—The Mongolian People's Republic, landlocked in the heart of central Asia between China and Siberia, is emerging slowly but steadily from long political and economic isolation.

"In 40 years, a leap forward from the middle ages to the modern era," is how Yumjag Tsedenbal, premier and Communist party leader, described it when he received recently in his office in the peat government building here.

The arrival early this summer of the first British ambassador to the Mongolian People's Republic, Terence Garvey, was another significant step in the process of emergency. He is the first Western ambassador accredited here.

Contrasts between ancient traditions of the Mongolians and the modern world stand out everywhere in this land of pastoral nomads, which produced Genghis Khan and Kublai Khan, and their hard-riding horsemen who carried the Mongol power to the Danube and the Indian Ocean during the middle ages. I found modern Mongolians a warm-hearted, friendly and informal people, proud of their country's achievements and eager to tell visitors of them, while talking frankly about their problems.

The features which soon emerged in any discussion was the problem of a tiny population living in a vast land which, until recently, was without modern communications, transport or health facilities.

The Mongolian People's Republic, formerly known as Outer Mongolia, is the northern of the two regions which make up the homeland of the Mongols. The other now is the Inner Mongolian autonomous region of the Chinese People's Republic.

Its population of just over 1,000,000 lives in a vast country spread over some 600,000 square miles—about the same area as Western Europe from West Germany to Portugal.

Geographically, it is a harsh country.

Rainfall is scanty and falls mostly in the summer. For most of the year, the plains are swept by high winds.

Two Drivers Of School Buses Handed Back Their Licences

ARMSTRONG (Correspondent) — The board of Armstrong's "Licences" The attorney-general, Gordon Gray, acknowledged receipt of the No. 21 re-advanced last week to take up unfinished business being investigated from the regular meeting.

The board learned that two drivers, Gordon Gray and Sam Watt, subject to their qualifying within a 90-day period. Examiner A. N. Jakeman told the board that a Mr. Hatfield, from Victoria, would like to meet with the board, and the secretary-treasurer Mrs. W. Wallace was instructed to arrange for a meeting. Trustees are anxious to clarify the situation and to find out what was meant by Mr. Jakeman's statement to the press that the school board was "impaired."

Regarding Mr. Jakeman's objection to the board's use of the word "impaired", the board felt that the result was the same, no matter how the action was described—drivers were deprived of the "A" licenses without notice if regulations permit this summary action, the board would like to see the regulations changed.

The last paragraph in the letter of protest sent to the board respectfully requests you to consider the interpretation of the regulations in respect to double-clutching under the conditions described, and also feels that in the case of drivers of school buses, arrangements could be made to have examinations during the summer vacation period, to prevent any recurrence of the serious situation which arose by the summer.

Lt. Gov. Pearkes, who was a major-general in the Second World War, was dressed in colonial uniform and wore his 11 decorations including the VC, won in the First World War. He is the most-decorated soldier in Canada. His former lieutenant-colonel in the last war, now Brig. E. D. Daulton, area commander, presented the Lieutenant Governor with the Canadian Forces decoration, a service medal, first and second clasps. Lt. Gov. Pearkes was also given a sword by an officer of the regiment to commemorate the visit, a sword from the officers of the regiment by former commander of Lt. Col. Alan Moss of Kelowna, now GSON 21 militia group, in return his honor presented the sword to the unit.

He showed the black coveralls and belt of the tank unit and rode in a Sherman across the plains of Glenemma for about 20 minutes.

Today Lt. Gov. Pearkes left Vernon from Ellison Field for Penticton Lake in an RCAF Otter aircraft where he will fish and relax for three days before returning to Victoria.

Pierre Burton Has Ally In High School Columnist

By JOAN FENNEY (Vernon High School)

Hurray for Pierre Burton. And three cheers for Jack Scott! It cheers up my drooping spirits to see that there are two prominent citizens, at least, who refuse to be led like lambs along the grassy way to conformity.

Shame on Maclean's Magazine for allowing itself to be pressured by minority groups of narrow-minded people. It astonishes me how people, who profess to be democratic, are ready, willing, and able to have these two writers removed from the public eye, succeeding former's case.

Where is our freedom, that someone daring to express his views on a controversial subject is fired from his job?

worse. People must understand, much, or has the adult world made teenagers if they think we forgotten how to view the scene from a ready and waiting to follow perspective?

Though I don't agree completely with all of Mr. Burton's ideas, I do sympathize with him on the whole.

Adult attitude towards sex among teenagers is... The idea of their kids doing anything more serious than... seems to be beyond the reach of most parents. They simply can't visualize Johnny or Susie doing anything "regrettable."

I often wonder why this is so, for surely the parents of today must have come in contact with the same problems as today's youth, when they were young. Have the years changed the sexual aspects of teenagers so...

... AND BITTER

The letters to Pierre were many and bitter, hurling barbed remarks as to his immaturity. And when Jack Scott dared speak out in favor of Pierre, he too was besieged by letters from in his words "Prudes and Bigots."

Mr. Scott here, I think, deserves a hearty round of applause, not only for his wholehearted support of Pierre, but also for publishing two letters he received from readers.

Well, I must close, but before I do—are there any readers who would like to have me removed from the newspaper world too?

Labatts Host Luckies Tonight

The Kelowna Labatts senior basketball team will have their hands full tonight when they host the Vernon Luckies in the 10:00 p.m. game at the Kelowna Civic Centre.

Cheer Manager Bill Martineau has not yet named a starter for tonight's contest. Vernon will likely start with their best, Bob Elliott.

Vernon has become a great threat in the last three weeks, knocking over the league-leading Marlet Luckies in both games of a double header in Vernon.

A win for the Labatts would move them into sole position of third place in the league standing but a loss would drop them to fourth.

Two Vernon choppers to watch for tonight are John Kaskube and his brother Alan who have been making a steady climb up the leading scorers list.

The Labatts have been strengthened by the return of utility man Johnny Cuios who has been outstanding in the three games he has seen action in so far this season.

The hole between first and second base has been plugged by the quick glove of Bruce Lofting who joined the club three weeks ago from Prince George.

Also fans may see the return of outfielder Rick Whismister taking up his outfield position to give an added punch to the Labatts at the plate.

Ed Moehling Grabs Lead In Canuck Open

TORONTO (CP)—Ed Moehling, who often wonders where his last meal is coming from, walked 191 professional and amateur and the windswept Seaside course Wednesday to take a three stroke lead into the second round of the 1960 Canadian Open golf championship.

The Mount Prospect, Ill., pro came out of nowhere to card a first-round 35-31-48, a five-under-par performance.

"I'm used to knocking out a first-round 74 or even a 71," said the six-foot-three 180-pound blonder who has been a crashing flop since he joined the pro tour last January. His official money earnings to $250 are hardly enough to keep him in cash.

He sank a 15-foot putt on the 18th to clinch a brilliant round that included five birdies over the 6,738-yard layout. He added an eagle-two with a 40-foot chip shot on the 11th and went over par only on two holes.

Three strokes behind him with 69 were Doug Ford, 40, a big money winner since he joined the tour in 1947. Freddie Hawkins, 39, who hasn't won a tournament since 1954, and Tommy Aaron from Gainesville, Ga., who joined the money ranks three years ago.

Koufax Hurls Shutout No. 7

Sandy Koufax is building a statistical story that figures to leave a deep imprint on baseball record books.

With one more start to go before the All-Star game break, the Los Angeles Dodgers left-hander is heading for his best season in the majors—a 25-victory campaign, a National League strikeout record and possibly a major league shutout record.

Koufax continued his superlative pitching Wednesday night, posting shutout No. 7 with a three-hit 5-0 victory over St. Louis Cardinals that increased Dodgers' first-place edge to 1 1/2 games over Cardinals.

Boasting a 19-3 record, a brilliant 1.84 earned run average and 144 strikeouts in 147 1/3 innings, Koufax is within range of his league strikeout record of 269 and could threaten Grover Alexander's 41-year-old shutout record.

'Smells Fishy' To Dick Tiger

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—World middleweight boxing champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria said today that he believed there was "something fishy going on" causing the repeated postponements of the return match with former champion Gene Fullmer.

The fight was originally set for July 13 at Ibadan and was postponed to July 27. Fullmer's injured foot now is reported taking longer to heal than was thought likely and the fight may be postponed again.

Tiger's manager Bobby Diamond said: "I am baffled. I cannot believe this at all. Fullmer was a great fighter but if he does not come then I have to think he turned yellow."

Acrobatic Chuck McKinley Favored In Men's Singles

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—faced British Wimbledon Cup British bookmakers today made star Mrs. Ann Haydon-Jones a 5-1 favorite to win the women's singles tennis played, a 6-0-4 odds-on favorite to beat Fred Stolle of Australia in the day's men's singles final at the all-England lawn tennis championships.

McKinley, bouncy 22-year-old university student from San Antonio, Tex., is seeded fourth here and Stolle, a tall, 24-year-old bank clerk from Sydney, is unseeded.

McKinley, whose quick server and fantastic retrieving delighted 25,000 centre court spectators Wednesday, didn't meet a single seeded player on his way to the final.

Stolle, a 22-toi shot when the tournament started, has knocked off two seeded opponents, Ken Fletcher of Australia and Manuel Santana of Spain.

McKinley has played Stolle six times in the past and beaten him only twice—and never on grass, the commodity that makes the Wimbledon championships so special.

CRUSHES BURGERT In the semi-finals Wednesday, McKinley was a flying, whirling figure as he crushed Wilhelm Bungert of Germany 6-2, 6-4, 8-6, while Stolle polished off Santana 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

Centre-court attention today was focused on women's singles. In one match Billie Jean Moffitt, a little U.S. giantkiller, food.

200 Tee Off Today In Opening Round Of "Ogo" Tourney

A total of 200 golfers teed off today in first round of the 13th annual Ogoogo Men's Open Tournament at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club course.

Two golfers from all points in the interior and Coast start the 54 hole medal play journey which is reported by Kelowna club officials as the best amateur tournament in B.C.

1962 tournament winner Rod Palmer of Kamloops will be out again to defend the title he won last year but can count on some tough scrambling from John Russell 1961 winner, Gary Puder who was runner up to Bruce Kidd in the commercial men's tournament in Kelowna last month.

Also highly rated as tournament threats is Len Morgan, Victoria, winner of the Vernon open, Bill Watson, Ray McNeilley, Vic Smith, Bill Carle of Penticton, Don Mettler and Dave Groat, professionals at the Kelowna Club.

The Ogoogo Tournament is sanctioned by the Willingdon Cup selection committee. All points awarded will go towards qualifying for the Willingdon Cup team.

A barbecue will be held at the Club House tonight at 8 p.m. All participants are welcome to take part and Kelowna Club members are welcome to attend at $1.00 per person.

Friday night there will be entertainment by Dick Kerr, best local young mimic, and a dance to follow. All members and participants are welcome to attend. The tournament will wind up Saturday with presentations of prizes and a dance to follow.

JFK Back From Longest Trek Pleased With Its Results

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy returned to Washington Wednesday after 11 days and 13,000 miles of travel in West Germany, the Republic of Ireland, Britain and Italy. Kennedy's trip through western Europe was his longest overseas journey as president and it hit a high point during the first three days—in Germany and Berlin.

It was largely because of the president's success in winning massive displays of welcome from the German people and convincing statements of solidarity from German leaders that he found the trip was worth the effort. He made repeated appeals in Germany for greater European unity and closer cooperation with the United States.

In some quarters here and abroad there have been fears that Germany might be preparing to cast her lot with France and President de Gaulle's controversial goal of an independent Europe free of close ties with the U.S.

Although the Franco-German rapprochement is a reality, the reaction given the president in Germany demonstrated that the goal of the United States still has a great potency in that country.

He was a member of the staff of the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories for 42 years, retiring in 1957.

Dr. Van Allen was a pioneer in the study of the outer planets and their moons. He discovered four of Jupiter's 13 moons, which were named after his children. He also discovered the Van Allen radiation belts around Earth.

The Bidding:
West South West North
4♥ 4♠ 4NT Pass
5♥ 5♠ 5♦ Pass

Opening lead—king of hearts. This hand was played by the British star, A. Hutchinson, who held the South cards. He wound up in five spades doubled on the bidding sequence shown. Apparently, there is no way of avoiding the loss of two spades and a club, but Hutchinson succeeded in making the contract by very fine play.

West led a heart which South ruffed. It seemed to Hutchinson that West probably had the three missing spades, which meant he would have to go down one or more tricks unless the diamond finesse worked and the queen of clubs fell as the ace and king were cashed.

Since a diamond finesse had to be taken in any case, he took it at once in order to give himself a chance to make the hand. When the queen won, he ruffed a heart and then played a diamond to the ace and ruffed a diamond, thus continuing the process of reducing his trump length in order to prepare for a possible endplay in trumps.

Hutchinson next cashed the A-K of clubs, hoping the queen would fall, but it didn't. He then exited with a club, producing the following position:

North
♠ J83
♥ 74
♦ A9884

West
♠ KQ10
♥ 532
♦ J5
♣ Q107

South

East had to lead a heart and Hutchinson made the key play of ruffing in his hand with the six and overruffing in dummy with the eight. He then trumped a diamond with the seven and played the five of clubs.

West, with only the K-Q-10 of spades left at this point could make only one trump trick regardless of what he did. (Dummy had the J-8 of spades and a diamond left and South had the A-9 of trumps.)

So West lost one of his trump tricks and Hutchinson made five spades doubled.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
Friday should prove a stimulating day. Personal relationships will be highly congenial, so such interests as group activities, travel and romance should bring you great happiness. Business interests may be somewhat on the "dull" side, however.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, you may anticipate a year of success, new business and romantic ventures and, quite possibly, a change of environment. It would be well to remember, however, that in any transaction of major importance, changes should not be made without cautious consideration. Do nothing under compulsion or duress. Let your keen mind, rather than your emotions, be your guide. Best periods for advancing your occupational and financial interests: between mid-August and mid-December; also in February and March.

If you are careful to avoid friction in late August and early November, you will find that practically all of this new year in your life will be marked by happy domestic situations. So, for romance, your best periods include the balance of this month, September and January. Look for good travel opportunities this month, in August and November.

A child born on this day will be artistically inclined; will have a great love for music and/or science.
